

ARE YOU READY?

To debate or not to debate? Looking at the different benefits and great events that we are hosting in October you should not hesitate too become a member of Wageningen Debating. See you soon?!

ACTIVITIES*1st General Member Assembly

For the first time ever, Wageningen Debating will assemble all its members and make the first board change of its short history. The meeting will take place on November 4th in Impulse from 19.30 to 21.30 and is followed by a party. During the meeting we will discuss the house rules, past and future of the association and of course approve the new board of Wageningen Debating.

To take part of this historic event you are kindly requested to become a member of Wageningen Debating by subscribing via our Website using the following link:

<http://wageningendebating.com/subscription/>

Members will receive the program of the meeting a week before the event. After the meeting (from 21.30 onwards) we will celebrate this milestone with an Amazing party (location yet to be announced)

Do not forget to highlight this event in all of your diaries, calendars and notebooks. It will be a night not to be forgotten for ages!

Details: Tuesday November 4th, 19.30 onwards at Impulse; Reflection room

*Note: You must be a member of Wageningen Debating to attend the Meeting

Roosevelt Open 2014

Jelske and Teun will represent our association in Middelburg on October 17th and 18th during the Roosevelt Open. The tournament is organised for the third time by the Roosevelt Debating Society and consists of 5 rounds of British Parliamentary debates with 7 minutes speeches.

We want to wish our representatives All the best of Lucks!

Discussieavond mens techniek en moraal*Dutch event

Weekly trainings October

07/10: Although debating is in the name of our association, we do much more than that. The time is there to actually start the debate. What are the rules and how do you 'win' the game. We will start with a short introduction movie to a topic, explain the rules of the game and do a full debate. Afterwards we will – as always- work with the feedback given by all of us.

14/10 We think in the self-study week you have enough information already to worry about. We meet you at café Loburg at our usual time (19:30h) for a nice chat while enjoying a cold (or hot) drink. Just some informal talking about daily life and current issues at hand.

21/10 Exam week: During the exam week, there are no lectures.

28/10 Sure you have noticed that once in a while some famous actor takes the spotlight and holds a magnificent speech on a current topic. Or it is a person no one has ever heard anything about and then covers the front page of your newspaper – or the homepage of your internet browser. What can we learn from these speakers and their speeches. What makes them important and how can we use those techniques. Yes we can!

New board member

Hallo, my name is Nathania Engelhardt, I am a fourth year Communication Sciences student and I am new to the board of Wageningen Debating. I like debating because you learn a lot of skills that you need not only for working purposes but also during your daily activities.

You will see me at the weekly trainings on Tuesday evenings and at every other event of Wageningen Debating. When you receive a mail, letter or FB message from Wageningen Debating, most of the time it's me. See you soon!
